

Adrian Rumney

---

Artist Profile

Adrian is a photographer with a passion for capturing natural landscapes, culture and the environment. His background in photography comes originally from working as a freelance sports photographer, doing work for a number of national and international online and print media agencies. This came with a lot of time spent out in the environment where Adrian was drawn to the landscape around him as much as the action he was there to cover.

Today, when he is not busy with his other passion of distilling gin, Adrian is focused on artistic interpretations of the world around him. Fascinated by how light can play over the land or water, his aesthetic seeks to capture this in an emotive way, often using long exposures to invoke an almost watercolour like texture to his photographs.